The fundamental principle of addition is that 1 and 1—2. Up-to-date this has never been discredited. But here we show proof that such is not always the case.

For instance a dollar deposited this morning, and another one this afternoon on the same account, ordinarily would at the end of the year mean $2.00. However, the sum on deposit one year from to-day would be $2.06.

JEFF CUNDIFF BAGS BAD MAN

Follows Him to His Lair And Captures Him After A
Duel in The Dark.

GOES THROUGH AMBUSH.

Escaped With Several Holes
In Clothing And One
In His Hat.

After two days' traveling through a country where he was shot at several times from ambush, Deputy United States Marshal Jeff Cundiff, finally, Tuesday night, managed to corral Jesse Skaggs, an alleged moonshiner, in a corner of Lurie county, where, after a desperate battle, he reduced Skaggs to subjection says the Louisville Times.

"Deputy Cundiff had been given a warrant for Skaggs' arrest several days before he could find any trace of him, but through some friends of his Cundiff located Skaggs in the outskirts of Lurie county Monday.

Mounted on a fleet horse, Skaggs took to the hills, and while Cundiff was in hot pursuit Skaggs' friends opened fire upon the deputy at every turn of the road. Cundiff's coat was twice grazed by bullets and his hat also bears a token of the desperate attempt that was made to check him.

Running into Skaggs in the hills unexpectedly while the moonshiner was engaged in preparing his evening meal, supposedly under cover, Cundiff ordered him to put up his hands. Instead, it is claimed, that Skaggs reached for his gun that was lying beside him and opened fire upon Cundiff.

A duel in the dark followed, each man taking advantage of the first available cover and finally, by resorting to a ruse, Cundiff approached within such distance of Skaggs that he was enabled to grapple with him.

In the hand-to-hand encounter that followed Cundiff managed to get his revolver against Skaggs' head where, upon realizing that further resistance was useless, Skaggs surrendered. Skaggs was taken before United States Commissioner Baldrick, at Lebanon, who fixed the man's bond at $500. This Skaggs was unable to furnish and he was brought to this city to-day and taken to the county jail, where he will be confined until the Federal grand jury sits. Outside of a few bruises Cundiff was unhurt."

Marshal Cundiff will return home to-night to resume his work in this city.

Association Officers of Trigg County Issue An Address.

SENTIMENT AROUSED.

Friends Of Association Urged to Cease Acts of "Personal Violence."

Cadiz Record.

The undersigned members of the Trigg County Executive Committee of the Planters Protective Association take this means of calling attention to the sad occurrences recently reported, and of defining their attitude in relation to the matter. This committee, representing the Association, has never counseled, aided or abetted lawlessness in any form. It feels that in the present state of public feeling the Association has been freely charged with all the ill incidents to agitated conditions, and the good it has accomplished not fully credited.

We realize that in revolutionary periods it is but natural that outbreaks and violence should occur, caused by the remembrance of wrongs suffered. As a body, trying earnestly to represent the true interests of the Association, we have viewed with much regret the acts of violence reported from time to time, not only in our own county, but in others as well. While the destruction of property is lamentable, all facts of personal violence are more to be deplored, neither of which commended itself to our favor.

We have no knowledge of who is guilty, nor have we any control over them. But we call upon all good citizens to unite with us in an effort to discountenance same, and to prevent a repetition of similar acts, the tendency of which is towards the subversion of law and order and our own good name. We call upon all in a serious manner—if any friends of the Association are engaged in these of personal violence, to cease same, acts in order that the Planters Association may not be brought into disrepute. We believe such things are inimical to our best interests, and we fear that in many instances private enmity has been manifested, and if continued great evil will result.

We realize that our people have suffered many wrongs, but the part of true manhood should be to bear all with patience, and trust to the association to relieve you in time. The work it has already done is but an earnest of what it can do in the future, and what it will surely do if it is continued upon the highest principles of honor and good citizenship. The friends of the association should look to its interest, which surely does not lie in a total disregard of the personal as well as the property rights of citizens.

For the good of the association and the peace of the community we hope that we will not be shamed further by hearing that private houses have been shot into, that women and children will not be terrorized and their innocent lives endangered. Good citizenship may be a flexible and forgiving quality, but it cannot endure this.

Of all the causes that combine to make poultry raising uncertain, that of lice is the greatest, and to it can be traced the numerous failures of careless and inefficient poultrymen.
The direct result of the ravages of lice is to sap the vigor of fowls and keep them from producing a profit.
This any poultryman knows. Lice also undermine the constitution of fowls and render them liable to the various diseases of the poultry yard.
It has been a standing puzzle to find a powder that would kill the louse the moment it touches, without harming the fowl in the least degree, and the trouble has been that most powders either just numb
the lice so that they will still crawl about and revive, or else the powder will injure the fowls while killing the lice. Many powders harm the eyes of fowls and impair their sight.

There has been a new lice powder discovered during this year—1907—that is a marvel of perfection. It is absolute and instant death to the louse and is perfectly harmless to the birds. It is the perfected result of twelve years research and incessant trial, and costs no more than the powders that fail to exterminate.
It is Conkey's Lice Powder.

In order to convince the poultry fraternity that this long sought necessity is at last on the market, the manufacturers are taking the whole cost on themselves to let the poultrymen make an absolutely free and thorough trial, with a very liberal sample, which will be sent post paid to any address upon application.

The following method for testing
the sample is the surest and the best:
Take a fowl you know to be lousy and hold it up by the legs. Dust the powder from the package into the feathers, and rub it in, so that it may reach the skin. Be sure and work the flour into the fluffy feathers, especially about the vent. Then stand the bird on a large sheet of white paper and fluff the feathers with the hand. The lice will drop out on the paper, where you can examine and find them absolutely dead and without a possible chance of reviving and multiplying. This treatment should be repeated in about a week to kill the nits which may hatch out.

Everyone trying this powder is enthusiastic over it and all say that it is the greatest article ever discovered for the absolute extermination of lice on poultry. It is also excellent for fleas on dogs, and lice on cattle and other animals. A very liberal sample will be mailed absolutely free and post paid on application to the G. E. Conkey Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

Movement to Protect Doves.

An article published in one of the local papers by "L" suggesting that the close season for doves be extended to Aug. 21, this year, on account of the backward condition of the birds and their scarcity in this locality, is timely and ought to be heeded.

It is urged, and with good reason, that the birds need this protection,
this season especially, and that a paper be circulated among the shooters pledging the signers not to shoot any until that date. "L" says he would sign such a paper (so will I) and expresses a belief that all true sportsmen would do the same. The best shooting is always obtained after the young birds are well grown and the old ones have fattened up for the summer moult.

It remains to be seen whether people will voluntarily do a thing because it is right, or wait for the law to say "Thou shalt not."

TERRY COAL & COKE CO.,
Hopkinsville, Ky.

GENTLEMEN:
Replying to your favor of the 14th instant, I unhesitatingly advise all consumers of coal to lay in a supply during the summer months and thereby avoid the inconvenience which must result on account of a shortage of cars next winter which in my opinion will be much more acute than was the shortage of last winter, unless the consumers lay in their coal supply as suggested.

You are at liberty to publish this in the interest of the producers and consumers of coal.

Yours Very Truly,
C. C. McCHORD, Chairman,
R. R. Commission State of Ky.
The railroad and coal operating officials of Western Kentucky have given out the same official notice, and urge us to advise our stockholders, and customers to lay in their coal this summer.

Last winter's experience and high prices, together with the above timely information should be sufficient warning, and we trust our people will take advantage of it and act at once.

We are ready to supply you with coal in car load lots over either R. R.
any day, "the best coal at summer prices," and trust that you will give us your orders early while we can get the cars to ship in.

The peace proclamation in Trigg county did not come too soon, and it is to be hoped it will have the desired effect. Some very influential names are attached to the appeal, and in order to give it a wide circulation we reproduced it in today's Kentuckian.

The Paducah Register editorially calls upon the City Council to enact a law compelling ice men to make their 100 pound cakes of ice weigh 100 pounds. It says many of them have a hole in the center and customers are being robbed of 20 or 30 per cent by short weights for inferior ice.

The August number of the Woman's Home Companion is primarily an all story number—except, of course, for the twelve indispensable departments that appear in each issue. The second instalment of Anthony Hope's new love story "Helen's Path," appears in this number, and all the other fiction comes up to the excellent standard of Mr. Hope's novel.

With the observance of the great privacy, Mme. Fromkin, who in March last attempted to assassinate Gen. Bishop Vincent of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Chautauque in Coffeyville, Mo., attacked modern evangelistic methods as "sensational and emotional." Ever since the first great revival on the day of Pentecost the evangelists have been the principal forces in the spread of the Gospel. If Bishop Vincent thinks as he is quoted, is out of accord with all Christian denominations. He should remember the fate of another Bishop who advocated "decent saloons" a few years ago and destroyed his usefulness as a church man.

The time has come when the strong arm of the law should be laid upon anarchy and its defenders in the person of the Adjutant General. It is no longer a theory, but a condition that confronts the state.

A QUINTETTE

Of Hobos Rounded Up Thursday Night.

Tom Clark, Will Edwards, Harry Anderson, Charlie Johnston and Jesse Coleman, who claim Nashville as their home, some of them giving the number and name of the street on which they live, woke up in the station Friday morning where they had spent the night.

What induced the five hobos to come here to sleep in open cars and on platforms was to be ascertained in the city court yesterday evening. There are at least as many cars in Nashville as here and the vagrancy ordinance is going to be more rigidly enforced than ever.

Hopkinsville has really been suffering with an influx of the lame, the halt and the blind for about three weeks, and none of them were disturbed, but when the healthy, hungry and lazy hobo strikes the town his days are numbered here. The police will take him in short order. But professional beggars are not wanted here, and they will learn it before long.

TOBACCO TRUST

Prosecutor Jas. C. McReynolds an Elkton Man.

The Nashville American of Thursday contained a brief sketch of Hon. James C. McReynolds who has been employed by the Government to prosecute what is known as the tobacco trust and its allies. Mr. McReynolds is a son of the late Dr. J. O. McReynolds, of Elkton, who died two years ago. He is second cousin of Squire T. J. McReynolds, of the Planters Bank and Trust Co., The American had the following to say of Elkton's gifted son: a splendid picture of Mr. McReynolds headed the article.

When quite a young man he removed from Elkton, Ky., to Nashville and began here the practice of his profession, rising as the years passed by, to an enviable position. He practiced mainly in the Chancery Court.

The ability he exhibited in the preparation of pleading in important cases and the clear-cut nature of his arguments before the courts gained for him considerable reputation.

When the Hon. J. M. Dickinson, who has been a Nashville lawyer, resigned as one of the assistants of the United States Attorney, Mr. McReynolds was appointed to succeed him. In that office he displayed such ability before the United States Supreme Court in handling the cases of the Government that he attracted the marked attention of President Roosevelt, who was loath to accept his resignation. On his removal to New York City to engage in the practice of his profession he was employed by the legal department to prepare and institute the case in which he is now engaged, and for which a life-long training peculiarly fitted him.

Hailing from the dark tobacco district and cherishing, as he does, a strong friendship for his old neighbors and friends, who believe themselves greatly wronged, by the methods pursued by the trust in controlling the principal product of that region, it may well be believed that conscientious spirit will characterize his professional labor in the Government's behalf.

Had Relatives Here.

Mobile, Ala., July 24.—Dr. J. T. Killebrew, one of the most prominent of the younger physicians of this city, was ground to pieces this afternoon under the wheels of a string of freight cars at the crossing of the Mobile, Jackson & Kansas City railroad at Ann and Tennessee streets, Perrin Bestora, a prominent street attorney, and society man was seriously injured, and Walter P. Torn, a young business and club man, slightly injured as the result of an automobile accident, when returning from the ball game at Monroe Park.

Walter Horn was driving. Dr. Killebrew was on the front seat with him and, in jumping, tripped and fell on the track and under the wheels of the moving cars. The automobile was driven on to the track before the train of cars was seen.

Dr. Killebrew was president of the Mobile County Medical Society, a lecturer on the diseases of women in the medical department of the University of Alabama, and an assistant in the Inge-Bondurant Infirmary here.

Dr. Killebrew had relatives in this city and county, among whom are Miss Fannie Belle Broughn, the Misses Starling, on East 17th street, and Louis Starling, of Clay and 10th streets.

New Ruling on Post Cards.

According to a new order issued by the Postmaster General, messages may be written on the face of postal cards, provided the writing is confined to the left end of the card and not extended over more than one third of the surface. This order is to go into effect on August 1.

The order provides that after August 1 postal cards may be used as vertical lines placed approximately one third of the distance from the left end of the card; the space to the left of the line to be used for a message, butspace to the right for address only.

YOUNG MAN DROWNED.

John Myers, of Earlington Meets A Tragic Fate.

Earlington, Ky., July 25.—John Myers, a popular Earlington young man and Sergeant in Company G, Kentucky State Guard, was drowned this evening about 8 o'clock. Going to a pond a mile south of town, he ran for about a quarter of a mile and jumped into the water while hot. He started to swim across and got into deep water, where he was evidently taken with cramps and went down. There were no strong swimmers present, but Page Blakemore, of Hopkinsville, a Kentucky University man and athlete, who is doing engineering work here during vacation, got there a few minutes after Myers sank, and brought the body up after diving several times. Myers was under water fifteen minutes or more. Two physicians were gotten to the scene quickly but every effort to revive him failed. He will be buried Saturday with military honors.

HOBOS ATTACKS

Engineer Christman Because He Couldn't Go On Engine.

While standing on the track at Otter Pond, the engineer of freight train No. 394, Mr. Roy Christman, had a visit from a tramp who wanted to have a free ride on the engine. Christman put the man off and got out of the cab to oil his engine when the disappointed tramp went up behind him and began pummeling the engineer on the head with a heavy spittoon. The tramp had every advantage of the engineer, and had not some of the crew of the train gone to his assistance the tramp might have been guilty of murder. As it was Christman was injured to such an extent that he had to be carried to the L. C. hospital at Paducah.

WARNED

Not To Thresh Wheat of Downer Bros., Members Of Association.

News comes from Guthrie that James Johnson, who operates a threshing machine, has been warned not to thresh the wheat crop of Downer Bros., as well as the crop of W. D. Merriwether. Downer Bros. it seems, are members of the association and claim that they had sold their tobacco crop through the association and wanted the advisory board to give them the papers to that effect, which was not done, the board telling them that if they had sold their wheat through the association all they had to do was to produce their checks.

We still have left about 40 copies of MEACHAM'S CITY DIRECTORY of Hopkinsville for 1907, which will be sold while they last at $1.00 each. It has been eight years since the last directory was issued and the new one will have to be used for several years. Business men who have not supplied themselves, should act promptly if they want one.

HEBREW CHRISTIAN.

Will Preach at the Baptist Church Sunday.

Rev. A. Lichtenstein, Superintendent of Jewish Mission Work in St. Louis and through the South, will fill Dr. Jenkins' pulpit Sunday morning and evening. He will preach especially about Israel and how the Jews are receiving Christ at this time. He will have pictures of people who have been converted in his mission and of missionaries who are preaching Christ today. He preached in this city two years ago.

He comes as a substitute for Dr. Jenkins, who is engaged in a meeting at Dawson. His series of special sermons will be resumed the first of Sunday in August, with the first of three sermons on Palestine. Dr. Lichtenstein's sermons will be very timely in this connection.

LIFE EBBING AWAY.

Charles N. Edwards A Victim of Bright's Disease.

Information has been received by relatives in this county near Pee Dee, of the critical illness of "Charlie" N. Edwards at his home in Florida. Mr. Edwards was proprietor of the Phoenix Hotel at one time and was well known in the county. He has Bright's disease and was expected to live but a few days.

THE ECLIPSE.

Of the Moon Surprised Many.

Notwithstanding the fact that our readers were notified two weeks ago that there would be a partial eclipse of the moon on the 24th, the eclipse was a surprise to many. As people started home from prayer meeting they noticed a black spot on the left side of fair Luna's face and couldn't imagine what was "up." The better informed then remembered that the time for the eclipse was at hand and squads here and there began the watch to the end. This winds up the performances of the sun and moon for the year, though the transit of Mercury, visible in the eastern part of this country, occurs November 14th. So you can throw away your pieces of smoked glass for this year.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Miss Mallie Lindsay Breaks Her Ankle While Visiting at Elkton.

Miss Mallie E. Lindsay, daughter of Mrs. C. Q. Lindsay of this place, happened to a very painful accident Monday night at the residence of her brother, E. B. Lindsay, in Elkton where she was visiting.

She went out on the back porch, so we are informed, for something, and stepped on some of the playthings which the children had been playing with, which rolled, throwing her to the floor and breaking one of her legs just above the ankle.

While it is a very painful break, it is understood that only one bone was broken, and it will not necessarily be a serious accident. She is still in Elkton.—Cadiz Record.

99 REACHED

Thursday and Hottest Night Yet.

Weather Clerk Randle reports Thursday as being the hottest day, during the heated term of three weeks or more. The mercury crawled up to 99 during the day and rested at 75, the hottest night by several degrees we have had this year.

Friday morning at 5:00 o'clock the mercury had reached 82 degrees. No prostrations so far as we have been able to learn. August is coming on apace, when it is hoped that the nights will be more bearable.

As Others See Us.

Almost daily the papers print stories of depredations wrought by night riders, who in their zeal against the operations of the alleged tobacco trust are using dynamite, fire and shotguns to compel adherence to their methods. Whatever sympathy may be felt for the dark tobacco growers of the State in the way they are waging with the capitalist manufacturers, these lawless outrages cannot be condoned.

Eastern papers are printing lurid stories of strife and bloodshed in old Kentucky. Editorially they comment on the situation as being characteristic of our State. How long are we to be exposed to this kind of advertising? How long are the splendid resources of Kentucky to lie undeveloped because capital fears to invest where security from molestation cannot be assured.—Louisville Herald.

DIES IN COLORADO.

Mrs. Geo. T. Wharton Has A Fatal Relapse.

Mrs. Geo. T. Wharton died at Ordway, Colo., Wednesday, from a complication of troubles, for which she underwent a surgical operation two weeks before. She stood the operation well and seemed to be improving, but she finally succumbed when heart trouble appeared as a further complication. She was formerly Miss Mary Henry, a daughter of the late Winston Henry, of Casky. She was about 35 years of age. Besides her husband, she leaves one daughter, Sara Belle, 8 years of age. The family moved to Colorado eighteen months ago.

One of her sisters, Mrs. M. B. King, went to her bedside two weeks ago and was with her when she died. It is not definitely known at this writing, but the body is expected to be brought here for interment, probably arriving at 5:18 this afternoon or tomorrow morning and that the burial will take place immediately afterwards.

Hopkins County Fair.

A fair promotes industry, fosters enterprise and generates competition. It gives fresh motive to the farmer and stockraiser, and encourages agriculture, while to the ladies it affords a friendly rivalry in the various departments of home work.

A FIRST CLASS BAND OF MUSIC Will be in attendance during exhibitions. A number of Special Attractions, in addition to the regular exhibitions, will be provided for the enjoyment of visitors. A full display of manufactured articles of all kinds, by hands and machinery. Every effort will be made to provide for the care and comfort of all who attend.

THE ASSOCIATION.

Hopes to crown the efforts of this year with the highest measure of success. To all, we say come prepare yourself to improve in the labor you propose for the coming year by spending a few days mingling with your fellow men at the fair. It is to the interest of farmers of this and adjoining counties to show their stock in good condition.

Better to Scream.

In defending the vigorous action of the suffragettes, of England, Mrs. Patrick Laurence says "Politics is a great game, and the rules are to make as much trouble and noise as possible 'till you get what you want." Illustrating in a womanly way, she says, "If the twins wake at night and one sucks her thumb and the other screams, which gets attention first?"

HAD BROKEN NO PROMISE

Great Financier Takes Time to Correct Mistake Made by the Zealous Bill Collector.

"Here, sir," said the collector for Titewad & Squeeze, "I want you to settle this bill."

"But," said the astonished and indignant creditor, "I haven't the money to do it with."

"Well, you got it, and do it right now. It's th' boss order—see?"

"I don't have any such optical illusions, my magnified friend. I shall pay that bill when I get good and completely prepared. Neither your boss nor his polite emissary can hurry me one-millionth part of a second."

"But," raged the collector, "didn't you tell th' boss, when you opened your account, that all the collector would have to do would be to present the bill the first of every month? And haven't I been here six times?"

"My dear man, your understanding of such things narrowly escapes being classifiable as human wisdom. Those were my exact words that you have quoted so dramatically. I said all you would have to do would be to present the bill. That was all you had to do. You didn't have to carry any money away with you. You didn't have to collect the bill. All you had to do was to present it. Understand—present it only. May I suggest that I have broken no promises and that you are working overtime?"

Then the great financier stalked moodily away to catch a train.—Chicago Daily News.

GLAD TO MEET HIM.

Three young men went into a restaurant the other day and sat down, says the New York Herald. After a period of waiting a supercilious waiter came up and took their order. They were not especially well dressed, and the waiter evidently had decided they didn't look like ready money, as he took his own time about serving them, and then neglected them altogether. The young men saw what the status of things was, and determined to give him a lesson. So after the meal, when the waiter laid down the check, the young men placed beside it the exact amount of their bill, took one by one his extended hand and shook it heartily, expressed their pleasure at making his acquaintance and passed out. The expression of the waiter as he stood looking after them was a study worthy of a master painter.

A PIG AS THE PATRON.

Most Lancashire cyclists are familiar with Winwick, a village on the way between Leigh and Warrington, surrounded by good roads, and no doubt many of these wheelers have been struck with the curious effigy of a pig carved in the tower of Winwick church, says London Tit-Bits.

It is said that when the church was being built a pig moved the foundation stone three times and at last allowed the stone to remain on the spot where the church now stands. An effigy was therefore placed in the church tower. The words "Winwick," uttered with a nasal twang, resemble the grunt of a pig, and this is also said to give the village its name.

GREAT SALE

Of Lots at Cerulean Springs, August 1st, 1907.

Accessibly by Railroad From Every Point of The Compass.

The Lots Are to be Disposed of at Public Auction.

The sale of 51 building lots at Cerulean Springs, Ky., is but three weeks off. The sale is to be made at public auction on Thursday, August 1st, and will doubtless attract a large number of buyers.

The advantages of this sale cannot fail to be of interest to everybody, and especially to those who want to own property contiguous to the noted Cerulean Springs Hotel property. The lots placed on the market border on the grounds of the hotel and park. Purchasers will have the free use of the mineral springs of the hotel and all privileges of the parking on the northern and eastern sides of the hotel grounds.

As a health resort Cerulean Springs is so well known all over this country that the lots should be eagerly sought after for country homes by those seeking health and recreation for their families, as well as those of more limited means who want to become citizens of the thriving town which takes its name from the Springs.

The lots to be sold form part of the original Cerulean Springs Hotel grounds. The springs were patronized as far back as 1819 by the southern planters, who, not having the advantages in those days of railroad transportation, drove through the country in carriages, their servants coming with them. Now there is a magnificent hotel with baths and every modern convenience, with a table supplied from the garden and farm, that cannot be surpassed by that of any other watering place in this section. The proprietor gives his entire attention to the management of this property and year by year the healing properties of the springs and the superior accommodations of the hotel are becoming more generally known.

The town of Cerulean has a bank, five churches, four stores, two resident physicians, as well as a merchant mill. The springs can be reached from all points of the compass by the I. C. R. R. Regular mails, telegraph, telephones, and express offices all contribute to the convenience of the patrons of the hotel and citizens. The plan of putting on the market 51 lots cannot fail to arouse interest among men of sound business ideas.

The lots are well kept, set in over 250 maple and Carolina poplar trees, and are in every way full that can be desired.

One of the conditions of sale will be that no residence or business house erected on the lots shall cost less than $1,000. Remember that the sale takes place on Thursday, August 1st, 1907.

Free dinner to everybody that attends the sale, which begins promptly at 2 p. m. Terms $ cash, balance in 12 months, with 6 per cent. interest.

Symptoms of Disease

Disease is a most difficult thing to wrestle with in poultry. It is far easier to prevent it than it is to combat it when it obtains a foothold. Often a person will employ more time and medicine than a bird is worth. The following will help most poultrymen to locate a difficulty and will also suggest treatment:

When the excrement secreted by the kidneys, which is normally white appears yellow, though the droppings are solid and the bird appears perfectly healthful lookout for bowel trouble.

When the crop is hard, distended and unyielding there is danger of the bird becoming crop bound.

When the discharges are streaked with blood it is time to give preventives for diarrhoea.

When the joints are hot and swollen and the fowl is disinclined to stand, rheumatism has taken hold.

When the nostrils are clogged with dirt and the eyes water, ward off possible cases of roup by timely treatment. If the case is bad, apply the hatchet.

When the bird is lame in one foot and a small swelling is observed remove it to a place where there is no roosts and compel it to roost on some straw or other material. It is bumble foot and is cured in this manner.

When a hen drops down behind, goes to the nest often, but does not lay she is suffering from disorder of the oviduct and might as well be killed and eaten.

When a bird is "going light," has a good appetite, but passes food from the bowels undigested, it is the early stages of consumption and treatment is useless.

When a bird has leg weakness with no disorder of the liver, feed lighter and give plenty of bone forming food.

When new fowls are bought they should be quarantined until one is assured that they have no disease that is communicable to the flock.

When a bird has difficulty in breathing it is well to look out for pneumonia.

When a fowl is dangerously sick with any organic disease it is worse than useless to use it as a breeder as it will communicate the same tendencies to its young and thus weak flocks are established.

When a fowl sneezes, wats slightly at the eyes and nostrils and the face puffs up, it is a common cold. When accompanied by rattling it is bronchitis. Difficult breathing, anorexia, Canker in the mouth, diphtheria.

When the discharges from the nostrils are profuse and ill smelling it is roup. Looseness of the bowels usually accompanies this trouble. Greenish discharges, turning to frothy white, are given as a symptom of cholera.

A dark, purple comb indicates congestion of the liver.—Poultry.

Tennessee State Fair

Nashville, Tenn., July, 1st, 1907.

Dear Sir:—The Tennessee State Fair Association will hold its second annual fair in the city of Nashville, September 23rd-28th, 1907.

You are no doubt aware of the fact that this fair is recognized as one of the greatest fairs in the United States.

The management were so well pleased with the record of the Poultry show at the fair last year and the tremendous success attending same and realizing as they do the importance of this great industry to the people of the state and south, they have decided to offer $1150.00 IN CASH PREMIUMS.

In this department this year, besides there will be $50.00 Silver Cup, $25.00 Banner Gold Medal and other attractive special premiums.

The Pigeon and Pet Stock department of the big Poultry show will be a prominent feature.

A poultry institute will be another big feature of this show, free to those interested in raising poultry. The best lecturers and demonstrators have been engaged to instruct those attending the Institute which will be located on the grounds and continue the entire week of the fair.

Another feature will be the exhibition yards, where flocks of the various breeds of thoroughbred poultry will be exhibited under natural conditions. A big egg laying contest is now being arranged.

All of these besides other attractions, aside from the great poultry show, will make the poultry section the greatest poultry event ever arranged by a state fair.

Nashville, besides being the greatest poultry center of the south is now recognized by the breeders over the entire country as one of the greatest poultry show cities in the Union. A winning at Nashville means much to the poultry breeder. A winning at Nashville is a valuable asset to any poultry plant. Come and bring your birds.

Yours truly,

JOHN A. MURKIN, Jr., Supt.
Poultry Dept.

State College of Kentucky,

LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY.

THE STATE COLLEGE, of Kentucky offers the following courses, namely, Agricultural, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Mining Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Normal School, Classical and seven Scientific courses, each of which extends over four years and leads to the Bachelor's degree. Each course is organized under a separate faculty. The general faculty, consisting of professors, assistant professors and instructors, numbers over fifty. County appointees receive free tuition, privilege of residence in dormitories, fuel and lights and traveling expenses, if they remain ten consecutive months, or the collegiate year.

The laboratories and museums are large, well equipped, comprehensive and modern. Military Science is fully provided for as required by Congress.

Graduates in the several courses of study readily find employment with liberal remuneration. The total number of matriculates last year was 901. Each department has a specialist at its head, with the necessary number of assistants.

Summer schools are provided for in Pedagogy, Engineering, and Instruction in Science and the Liberal Arts. The young women find an excellent home, with board and lodging in Patterson Hall, which is well equipped with all modern conveniences, bath-rooms, hall for physical culture, at $3.00 per week. All the courses of study in the College are open to young women upon identical conditions with those applying to males.

The attendance upon the Normal School in connection with the Department of Education last year more than doubled that of any preceding year.

Three new buildings, namely, one for the department of Education, one for Agricultural Science, and a Library Hall, are in process of erection and will be completed early in the next collegiate year.

HERO IN GRAY WHO IS LOVED BY HUNDREDS OF FERRELL'S BOYS.

Noblest Veteran of the School room Now A Helpless Invalid.

TAUGHT HERE 30 YEARS.

Maj. James Overton Ferrell, Soldier, Instructor And Christian Gentleman.

(U. C. V., Sketch No. 2.)

Maj. J. O. Ferrell is a native of South Carolina, and was a gallant soldier of the Lost Cause for nearly four years.

He received a liberal education in the schools of his native State and completing his education, he first taught a school at South Boston, Va., and in 1857 went to Edgefield, S. C., where he became a professor in a boy's school at that place and continued to teach for three years, until the outbreak of the civil war. His school was brought to a close in 1861 and the young schoolmaster enlisted in the 19th Regiment of South Carolina Infantry as a private. He went to Columbia, where his regiment was assigned to Gen. A. M. Manigault's brigade in December 1861. About this time he was made Adjutant to the 19th Regiment and afterwards held the same position when the 19th and 10th Regiments, depleted by heavy fighting, were consolidated.

His first active service was around Corinth, Miss., Farmington in the same State and at other points where there was almost constant fighting. His brigade was a part of the Western Army of Gen. J. S. Johnston and the young Adjutant Major followed that intrepid leader through many of the most stirring scenes of the war. Later he was assigned to Gen. Bragg for service in the Kentucky campaign. He missed the battle of Perryville, as his division was detached to engage Gen. Sill, who was chased out of reach and his provision train taken, which was an important capture at that time. He was in the fight at Munfordsville, Ky., and was in the bloody battles of Missionary Ridge, Chickamauga and other fights in North Georgia. He took part in all the fighting around Atlanta and was in the battle at Jonesboro, Ga., August 31, 1862. When this battle began Adjutant Ferrell was suffering with a blinding sick headache and was hardly able to hold up his head. When the bugle sounded he responded with his regiment and went into the fight with a handkerchief tied around his head. He soon forgot his headache and during the hottest part of the fight when Gen. Manigault galloped by him and asked "Adjutant, have you your head?" He replied: "I forgot I had a headache when the battle began."

In this battle many soldiers became demoralized and it was his duty to rally them. At one time he halted three or four men in a squad who were going to the rear. One of them claimed that they were being sent for a litter, but when they were ordered back one young fellow came close to him and said "Major I can't take the chance. In my first battle I was shot through the body and spent months in a hospital. The first battle after I returned I was shot in the same way and am just back. I don't want to go back. I will be shot the third time and killed. I haven't the heart to fight." After the battle he answered roll call, looking shame faced when his name was called, but, in a subsequent battle the gallant young soldier fell dead with his name on the foe. He conquered his temporary faint-heartedness, but his presentiment came true. Maj. Ferrell in telling the story said the incident was one of the occurrences of the war that were vividly impressed upon his memory.

At Dalton, Ga., his stern sense of duty caused him to report himself for neglect of duty.

His General sent a courier with orders that Adjutant Ferrell detail a squad of men to construct a bridge early the next morning. The Adjutant was sitting down to his dinner and placed the paper on his table to be attended to as soon as dinner was over; before he finished eating he was summoned for some other duty and in his haste forgot the important order. Morning came and about nine o'clock another courier dashed up and handed him a demand to know whose fault it was that the previous order had been disobeyed.

He wrote out a brief statement of the fact, saying that it was entirely his fault, due to the disturbed condition of his mind and the conflicting demands upon his time.

He waited expecting to be ordered to the guardhouse and relieved from duty, but the kind hearted General sent back a note: "Adjutant Ferrell's excuse is entirely satisfactory. We are all liable to mistakes, hurry up the detail."

Maj. Ferrell was in many bloody battles during the four years he was in the army, but was never wounded. He surrendered at High Point, S. C., and was paroled, being allowed to retain his horse.

The following fall he returned to Greenville, S. C. and resumed teaching in the Greenville Female College. While there he was married to Miss Elizabeth Austin, the devoted wife who has been his beloved helpmeet for more than 40 years. In the Greenville College he taught under the late Prof. Chas. Hatfield-Judson, who died in January 1907, shortly after having been awarded a Carnegie Foundation award.

From Greenville he went to Catonsville, Md., five miles from Baltimore, and taught one year in a military school, and in 1869 came to Frankfort, Ky., and for the succeeding four years taught in the Kentucky Military Academy.

In September, 1873, he came to Hopkinsville and established Ferrell's Military Academy, afterwards known as the Hopkinsville High School. The school was a success from the start and it became necessary for him to employ two assistants. Col. M. H. Crump of Bowling Green, Ky., Judge Frank D. Glasgow, of Lexington, Va., Hon. F. D. Peabody (since deceased) of Augusta, Ga., and Prof. C. C. Thach, of the Alabama State University, were his assistants from time to time during the next ten years.

The school was conducted according to Maj. Ferrell's rigid ideas of discipline gained in the army and from teaching in military schools and the fame of his school soon spread far and wide. The curriculum embraced languages, higher mathematics and the sciences and the course was practically the same as taught in many colleges. He added a boarding department and his school prospered from year to year and hundreds of young men received a liberal education in the academy that stood near the river at the foot of Thirteenth street.

Conditions changed in 1881 when the public graded school system was inaugurated and Maj. Ferrell changed his school from a Military Academy to a high school for young men. But ten or fifteen years later the public school added high school grades and he again adjusted himself to new conditions and changed his school to a select training school, where boys were given a course that fitted them to enter any college almost without an examination. During this period he trained boys who entered some of the larger colleges and attained highest honors. Here while quietly pursuing the course he chose for his life work, he taught until February 1903, lacking but a few months of being thirty years in the same school room. One night after a day as usual in the school room, he retired seemingly in good health, but during the night was stricken with paralysis of his left side, for which his life was despaired of, but he slowly improved until he was able to be a constant sufferer, but has for more than four years remained a helpless invalid. His school was of course immediately closed down—for no one could be found to take his place—and his long and useful career was at an end.

The records are not complete and it cannot be told just how many "Ferrell's boys" there were from 1873 to 1903. It is safe to say that not fewer than 1,000 young men were taught by Maj. Ferrell personally and many of them have succeeded beyond the fondest dreams of their boyhood days. They are to-day found in many states of the union and no matter where they are there is a tender spot in the heart of every one of them for the noble old veteran who wore out his life in teaching boys how to become good men and honest, upright citizens. Scores of his "Boys," as he loves to call them, have visited him during the long years that he has lain upon his bed, or been rolled about the streets in his invalid's chair.

His only son, Prof. C. C. Ferrell, is a professor in the Miss. University and Maj. Ferrell and his noble wife, who has cared for him so tenderly since he was stricken down, live alone in their handsome home on South Main street. Sustained by a sublime faith, he is waiting for God's will to be done. No grander old man ever closed a more honorable career in the school room. In many instances he taught father and son in the same rooms as the years passed by and one generation taught the next to honor and revere him for the noble traits of a character that his "boys" could not come in contact with without being permanently benefited in many ways.

If the prayers and good wishes of his former pupils would restore him to health, he would soon be well again, for age had not impaired his faculties when he fell. By his own deeds he has erected a monument that will live in the memories of men, until the last one of his "Boys" has been called to "books" on the other side.

Free Scholarships.

The Fall Session of the Western Kentucky State Normal School at Bowling Green will begin September 3, 1907.

Christian County is entitled to ten additional scholarships for the present scholastic year. These scholarships are awarded in addition to those issued last year. I also have a right to appoint eligible applicants to use fragments of unused scholarships. The Normal is doing a great work and is offering boys and girls, men and women, excellent opportunities to acquire an education at a small cost. With board at rates ranging from $9 to $12 per month everything furnished, and with free tuition, an education has certainly been put by the State within the reach of everyone.

Persons sixteen years old or older are eligible to appointment. Those who desire free tuition should see or write me before August 10 and make application for free instruction. W. E. GRAY, Co. Supt.

GREAT BALL GAME

Boston National League Team Coming to Central City August 7th.

It was advertised throughout Western Kentucky that the Boston National League Base Ball Team would play at Central City the 6th of last April, but just before the team left its training quarters at Thomasville, Ga. one of their players, Harry Dolan, died, and all of their southern exhibitions were canceled so that the team could attend the funeral of their comrade. But Manager John T. May, of the Central City Athletic Association, met President George R. Dovy, of the Boston National League Base Ball Company at Cincinnati, when he played there a few weeks ago, and accompanied him to St. Louis and arranged for him to bring his team to Central City, Wednesday August 7th., and this high class base ball attraction will, without any kind of doubt, be seen there on that date.

This is an unprecedented affair in the history of ball. Never before did a big league team stop to play a game in a small town, or a large one, either, in this section of the country. Central City will enjoy the distinction of being the only town south of the Ohio River that ever played a National League team during the championship season and the people living in this section of Kentucky should not fail to avail themselves of this single opportunity to see such a big ball game. Arrangements will be made with the railroads for special rates and excursion trains for those who cannot be accommodated by the regular trains. The game will be called at 2:00 o'clock, p. m.

DIED IN HENDERSON.

Former Hopkinsville Man Victim of Typhoid Fever.

William Charlton's remains arrived here Thursday night from Henderson. Mr. Charlton was a former citizen of this city but for a while had been making his home in Henderson. Typhoid fever caused his death. He was about 56 years old and is survived by several children. His wife died several years since. He has a number of relatives living in the city and county. Burial took place yesterday in the Hayes family burying ground, on the Butler road.

DISMEMBERED.

Horrible Injury to Former Hopkinsville Man.

W. H. Eggleton, an employee of the Frank Alford Lumber Company, Brook and Lee streets, was terribly injured Tuesday afternoon at the company's plant by being caught in the machinery and whirled around, says the Louisville Times. He was dismembered. Eggleton was taken to St. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital, where he is in a critical condition. He lives at 2306 Dumesnil street, and has a wife and two children.

Concerning Women.

"The statement often made that when women vote they will no longer have children, or if they do, those children will be badly reared, has been proven false. They not only have children, but they have beautiful children; and not only beautiful children, but the most beautiful children in all the United States, since in the great beauty contest which the newspapers of the separate states have been waging, Margarette Frey, of Denver, Colo., has been declared the "Winner of the National Beauty Tournament." Miss Frey's mother, a widow, is a fully enfranchised citizen."

A Friend at Court.

Judge Pritchard, in the United States Court at Ashville, N. C., discharged Ticket Agents Wood and Wilcox, of the Southern railway, on habeas corpus proceedings, and declared the penalty clause of the new Rate Bill unconstitutional.
